Ankura is a Peruvian brand that believes that ethical & sustainable fashion is not a trend, it is a movement.

They are committed to fair trade and transparent production, and each of their pieces is crafted fairly by artisans in Peru using only the finest organic and natural fibers. <https://www.shopankurabrand.com/>

Eileen Fisher believes social and environmental injustices are a reason to do business completely differently, and carefully oversee their supply chain to ensure fair working wages. By 2020, their vision is to have 100% organic cotton and linen fibers, responsible dyes, carbon positive operations and a no-waste facility. <https://www.eileenfisher.com/>

Fair Trade Winds carries fashion brands committed to creating clothing in an ethical manner. Each piece is created by women working in cooperatives becoming empowered and improving the livelihood of their families and communities. <https://www.fairtradewinds.net/>

Global Mamas are talented entrepreneurs and leaders in their communities. There are nearly 350 producers from 7 different communities in the Global Mamas network in Ghana. <http://www.globalmamas.org/>

HOPE Made In The World strives to create ethical essentials for both men and women. The creators of HOPE are looking to transforming the way the world perceives, produces, and consumes style. <https://hopemade.world.com/>

Indigenous makes and sells fair trade clothing for both women and men. Their brand supports talented artisans around the world using organic cotton and low-impact dyes to ensure their clothing has a positive impact on the planet. <https://indigenous.com/>
